STATE NAMES-DRAFT BOARD.

Number Will Be Drawn by War Department.

One hundred and forty draft boards will handle the machinery of the conscription law in Michigan.

The names of the men who compose these boards are finally appointed by Governor Sleeper and approved by President Wilson were made public Monday afternoon by Judge Advocate General Pepper of the state military department.

The members of the boards will take the oath of office as soon as the notice of their appointment reaches them. Then they will take the cards which were made at the registration and number them consecutively in red ink. The duplicates will also be given the same number. When this numbering is done, and it must be completed by July 5, the duplicates are to be sent to Washington and Lansing. Then the board is to sit back and wait until the draft is ordered by the Washington authorities.

The war department will determine the quota of each draft district. It will then draw numbers by lot, either by use of the jury wheel or in some other way that will insure the absolute fairness of the drawing. It will then wire each draft board to take such and such numbers—Nos. 13, 23, 44, for instance—and the individual draft boards will then pick out cards which they have numbered 13, 23, 44, or whatever it may be, ascertain the names and registration numbers that those cards bear and publish those registration names and numbers.

If this plan is carried out the war department has ordered No. 13 drafted for instance, will not necessarily mean that the man whose registration certificate bears No. 13 will have to go. It will mean that the registration card bearing No. 13 in each particular draft board's series of new numbers will be picked out and the man whose name is registered thereon will be drafted.

The boards named are to hear all exemption claims and pass on individual cases.

The draft boards for Crawford and Roscommon counties are: Crawford—W. H. Cody, Frank Sales and Dr. S. Insley; Roscommon—A. H. Johnston, Wm. Houghton and Dr. C. C. Curnalia.

NEW TRAINING CAMPS FOR RESERVE OFFICERS OPEN AUGUST 27.

Application Blanks Now at Avalanche Office.

MEN OF MATURE AGE WILL BE GIVEN PREFERENCE.

The United States government, in announcing its plans for the second officers' training camp, makes a special appeal to men of mature age. The war department strongly desires men who, by virtue of their ripe judgment and that force of character which come with years, are able to lead others.

Men of 31 and over, and up to 44 years of age, are particularly wanted—professional men—men now holding responsible positions and business executives and men of special military training up to 50 years. The military officials point out further that the more mature men, who are ready to serve their country at war, should consider it a solemn duty to apply for positions as officers rather than to be content, thru modesty, with a place in the ranks.

Capt. Wm. M. Case, Grayling, in charge of the local officers' recruiting headquarters of the Military Training Camps association, emphasizes the words of the Washington office. "Since the best ideal of service is for every man to do what he is particularly fitted for, men of maturity should consider that they are fulfilling their plain duty by qualifying as officers; that they are serving their country most efficiently by serving as commanders."

This is the final call for older men from civil life, who have a fund of real, personal experience. Younger men can rise from the ranks. The training camp is primarily for those over 31 years of age.

The war department makes it very clear that when the men, who secure commissions at this last camp, have taken their places as leaders of the first 300,000, all promotions will be from the rank and file.

QUALIFICATIONS.

In brief, the following are the qualifications for admission to the new training camps. An intelligent, trained mind. Executive business ability. Previous military training is an asset—but not necessary. The maximum age limit is fifty years; the minimum, twenty years, nine months. However, in order to obtain the experienced class of men desired, preference will be given to those over 31 years of age, other things being equal.

The war department expressly states that because of the anticipated large number of applications, it will probably be difficult for men under 31 years to qualify, except in instances where the applicants have pre-eminent qualifications or unusual military experience.

The government will pay civilians in training at the rate of $100 per month, and will also furnish transportation, subsistence and uniform. Men who receive commissions will be paid, while in active service, at the same rate as regular United States army officers, which is as follows:

Second lieutenant.....	$1,700.00
First lieutenant.....	$2,000.00
Captain.....	$2,400.00
Major.....	$3,000.00
Lieutenant-colonel.....	$4,000.00

IMMEDIATE RESPONSE NECESSARY.

Applications for the second training camp will be received between June 15th and July 15th at the local officers' recruiting headquarters. Under no circumstances will an applicant be considered after July 15th. Upon the termination of this period, army examiners will visit various points, to be announced, in each state. An appli-

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Believe in Aerial Service Says Congressman Currie.

In my judgment, this Government should feature the aerial service in its war program. American mind contrived the aeroplane, the submarine, the Springfield rifle, and the majority of other effective weapons used in this war. Abounding with genius and the greatest manufacturing plants in the world, we are eminently fitted to build the best aeroplanes on the face of the earth, and to do so quickly and in quantities. This war is rapidly developing aerial activity, and in the future aeroplanes, tanks, heavy artillery, and other great war machines will entirely overshadow field soldiery. With respect to bombs, American creative ability recently accomplished things that have been sought unsuccessfully by the warrior powers of Europe. Bombs have been perfected that will explode invariably six feet above the face of the earth, which permits their energy to be expended most destructively, instead of on the crater and upwards. One cannot imagine the destruction wrought by such a weapon without seeing the actual photographs made from its tests. Men now in obscurity will, within a few months, be heralded as the heroes of the hour. Pin your faith in America and Yankee ingenuity.

Another reason why aerial service should be featured is that it requires the transporting of fewer men and consequently relieves the transportation problems. One of the greatest difficulties now confronting the Entente Allies is the feeding of its armies and its people. Shipping facilities are sadly needed, and the sinkings by submarines for the past few months have been greater than the entire capacities of the ship building industries of the world.

However, until this war has concluded, let us also be prepared with a great army and masterful navy to take care of any enemy that may beset us. Our casualties are likely to be less following such a course than by adopting a weaker policy. Let us be prepared and determined to take a man's part in this great struggle, testing, we hope, for centuries to come whether autocracy or democracy shall rule the earth; whether a Kaiser, who pretends to be acting by Divine right, shall have the power to make war upon his peaceful neighbors, or whether the German people shall have the right to determine for themselves such serious propositions. This is not a war against the German people, rather it is as much for them as for ourselves. I believe that the time will soon come, after the close of this strife, when the liberty loving German people will look upon the success of ourselves and the Allies as a blessing, just as the Confederate soldiers regarded the success of the North after the close of the Civil war. Every member in Congress today from the Southern States, and some of them are Confederate veterans, will admit that the success of the North in that great conflict was a fortunate result even for the South itself.

I will conclude by relating the substance of a quotation that was taught me in the district schools, which I believe could be aptly applied to us all now: "Let us prepare for the worst, pray for the best, and take what God sends."

Gilbert A. Currie, Congressman 10th Dist. of Michigan.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT NIAGARA FALLS

FOURTEEN PERSONS DIE WHEN CAR FALLS INTO RAPIDS ALONG GORGE ROUTE.

WASHOUT CAUSE OF DISASTER

Car Plunges Down 20-Foot Embankment and Turns Over in Ten Feet of Water.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—A belt line car on the Great Gorge route left the rails, plunged down a 13-foot embankment and turned over in 10 feet of water on the edge of the whirlpool rapids at 3:50 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Fourteen persons are believed to be dead, and more than a score were taken to hospitals, suffering from injuries received in the accident.

A washout due to recent heavy rains was the cause of the disaster, which occurred just below the cantilever bridge and 60 feet below the point where the smooth water of the upper reaches of the Niagara river breaks into the turbulent waters of the whirlpool rapids.

The car was one of the open type, the seats extending from side to side with steps on both sides the full length. All the seats were occupied and some of the passengers were standing between them and there were others on the rear platform.

The car was running at a speed of about 20 miles an hour when it struck the weak spot in the roadbed. Less than half a minute elapsed from the time the motorman felt the first jarring away until the car was bottom side up on the edge of the rushing rapids.

Members of a National Guard regiment who were on guard at the cantilever bridge, saw the accident and were the first to the rescue. The soldiers slid down the bank into the river and worked in water up to their waists getting injured passengers free from the wreckage and passing them up the bank, where an emergency car had been placed to carry them to the Niagara Falls hospital.

TEUTONS HIT AT VERDUN AGAIN

Crown Prince Shoves Picked Troops Forward—British Make Gains.

London—A new drive against the big French fortress, Verdun, is on. All the bitterness and fury accumulated in 12 months of constant sparring with the British "niggers" is being thrown into this new effort.

Verdun is an obsession not only with the crown prince, but with all Germans. Troops hurled into battle there fight with fanatical death-defiance, and die with a smile on lips that murmur "Verdun!" happy in the belief that another inch toward the fortress has been gained by their valor.

BRITISH GAIN GROUND

While Germany is throwing vast masses of men over the bloody slopes of the Verdun battlefield, Field Marshal Haig is gaining ground by leaps and bounds around Lens—again and without massed attacks. At Verdun the French were decimating the attackers. Around Lens the British forces were succeeding with what front dispatches termed as astonishingly small casualty list.

Russian Start Drive

The Russian troops in the eastern theatre of the war have finally opened a heavy attack on the Germans along the Stripsa front.

They stormed the German positions along an 18 1/2-mile line but, according to the official German report, met heavy losses and were forced to retire. This was the most extensive attack delivered by the Russians since the revolution.

RIOT BREAKS UP PEACE PARADE

Soldiers and Sailors Disperse Mass Meeting of Socialists.

Boston—For several hours Sunday afternoon a riot raged on Boston Common between anti-conscriptors and soldiers and sailors intent on breaking up a mass meeting of the draft opponents.

A Socialist newspaper plant was wrecked and bonfires made of banners. Leaders of the anti-war were forced to kiss the American flag. Many persons were injured.

The riots attended a Socialist parade announced as a peace demonstration. The ranks of the marchers were broken up by self-organized squads of uniformed soldiers and sailors, and red flags and banners bearing socialist mottoes were trampled on, literature and furnishings in the socialist headquarters in Park Square were thrown into the street and added to the bonfire.

Lansing—The Pullman company notified Governor Sleeper that it has contributed $147,000 to the American Red Cross, $1,000 of which is for the Michigan company.

Muskegon—Jackson Elks took most of the honors at the recent Elks' convention here. The lodge won $100 for rifle target work, $50 for best parade uniforms, $50 for the best band and $100 for the band's work. In addition, a Jackson man was elected state president and Jackson was chosen for the convention.

Kalamazoo—Mrs. Sarah Dawson, 84 years old, died of injuries suffered when she tripped over a rug.

Battle Creek—More than 10,000 people gathered at the station, when Ambulance Company No. 11, organized for Red Cross service by Dr. James Case, left for Allentown, Pa., for final training before going to France. Battle Creek is not the only city represented in the corps. Marshall has five boys enlisted, Allenton three, Detroit four, Cadillac three, Marquette five, Kalamazoo three, Sturgis two and Niles one.

AN ERRATIC SUMMER

RAILROADS APPEAL FOR RAISE DENIED

COMMERCE COMMISSION SAYS GENERAL INCREASE IS NOT NECESSARY.

15 PER CENT ADVANCE ASKED

Eastern District Allowed to Raise Rates on Certain Commodities Approximately 14 1/2%

Washington.—The inter-state commerce commission has denied the appeal of the railroads of the United States for a horizontal increase of 15 per cent in freight rates.

In its decision the commission indicated its willingness to increase class rates in the eastern district approximately 14 per cent.

Since about one-fourth of the freight handled is moved under class rates, the decision virtually allows the eastern lines about four per cent increase in gross freight revenue.

The commission found, as result of extended hearings, the carriers generally show a substantial and increasing financial prosperity, and they have ample resources with which to conduct transportation.

Little sympathy was given the arguments of the roads that were victims of war prices, the commission holding the carriers have profited by the mobilization of troops.

The commission found in general that the effects of the Adamson 8-hour basic day and of the increased cost of fuel supplies and materials had not affected the southern and western carriers as greatly as it affected the eastern carriers.

200 FAIL AT FORT SHERIDAN

Sixty Michigan Men Among Those Who Are Rejected.

Fort Sheridan, Ill.—Two hundred students at the officers' training camp here were notified of their failure to qualify for commissions in the army.

Most of the faults of the men are trivial—underweight or overweight, defective hearing, color blindness or near-sightedness. But in the demand for physical perfection they failed in the eyes of Major C. W. Bell, Captain Owen Meredith and Lieutenant Robert Proxmire, the examining board.

Some of the men may be retained in other branches after the list sent to General Barry for approval is returned to Colonel Nicholson. That is, if they wish it. The list has not been made public, but is said to contain about 60 Michigan men.

GREECE BREAKS WITH GERMANY

New Ruler and Cabinet Declare That State of War Exists.

London—Greece's active participation in the war on the side of the allies is imminent. Dispatches from Athens detailed declaration of a state of war by the new King Alexander and his cabinet, Eleutheros Venizelos.

Prior to this step against the Teutons, all arrangements had been made for recall of Greek diplomats from Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey.

Active expression of sympathy, which the people of Greece have always felt for the allies, was a foregone conclusion the moment the former pro-German King Constantine stepped down from his throne.

Big Rapids—Woodbridge Ferris

son of Phelps Ferris, and first grandson of the former governor, probably is the youngest Liberty bond holder in the state. His father bought the bond for him two weeks before he was born.

Port Huron—Dr. Sylvester W. Merrill, 68, formerly mayor of Fort Gratiot before that section of this city was annexed, and for many years examining physician for the Grand Trunk railway at Fort Gratiot, died after a long illness.

Flint—More than 300 women conducted a canvass of the city that resulted in the listing of every woman in Flint who is willing to take up some line of man's work when she is needed.

Lansing—Fred L. Keeler, superintendent of public instruction, said that there are 1,200 less teachers enrolled at summer schools this year than in 1916. He says he expected the war to cause a scarcity of teachers, especially male ones, but had no idea matters would prove as bad as they now are.

BAKER SCORNS $3 COAL PRICES

Figures Set at Meeting of War Council Denounced As "Exorbitant."

Washington.—Three dollars a ton at the mines—the price for bituminous coal proclaimed as a patriotic concession last week by the coal committee of the council of national defense, a convention of coal operators and Secretary Lane, of the department of the interior—was denounced by Secretary of War Baker as "exorbitant, unjustified and oppressive."

Neither the council nor its committees, Secretary Baker said, in a letter to W. S. Gifford, of the council, has power to fix prices.

Priest Fling Called Illegal. Secretary Daniels, another member of the council, said the agreement would in no way affect coal purchases for the navy. The navy, he said, will continue to buy from the mines at $2.33 a ton, leaving a price to be determined after the federal trade commission has ascertained production costs.

In his letter to Mr. Gifford, Mr. Baker asserted he believed no members of the defense council disagreed with him in the limitations of the powers of the council and its committees, and as to the effect of the action taken. The fact the conferences were attended by members of the council and of the trade commission, he declared, gave no legality to the agreement.

The price fixing agreement was reached after 400 operators called here by the coal production committee had adopted resolutions authorizing their committees to give assent to such maximum bituminous prices as might be named by the secretary of the interior, the federal trade commission and the coal committee.

DANIELS SEIZES OIL FOR NAVY

Assures Supply for Ships—Price to Be Determined Later.

Washington.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels in effect has commandeered for the navy, fuel oil, gasoline and distillate which the service will need until September 30. Prices will be agreed upon on a basis of cost plus a reasonable profit.

The navy has been paying 85 cents a barrel for oil and the latest bidders asked $1.68.

Preliminary payments will be made on a basis of $1.25 a barrel for oil at Port Arthur and $1.08 at San Francisco. Advance payments for gasoline will be at the present prices—18 1/2¢ at Port Arthur and 17 cents at San Francisco.

These payments will later be increased or decreased according to the outcome of a cost inquiry.

The effect of the secretary's order will be to give the navy's needs precedence over every other.

BRAZIL'S NAVY HUNTING U-BOATS

Practically Joins U. S. Although Declaration of War Is Not Made.

Washington.—Brazil's navy has begun co-operating with the American fleet in South American waters in hunting down German sea raiders.

Without formal declaration of war Brazil practically joined the United States against Germany.

Coincident with the inauguration of Brazil's naval operations a plan for protecting her merchant ships in the voyages to Allied ports, with frozen meats and other foodstuffs, has been put into effect.

Whether Brazil will supplement her action by a formal declaration of war is not known here, and by some officials such action is regarded as doubtful because the government at Rio de Janeiro is inclined to regard its action rather defensive than aggressive.

For the present, it is believed Brazil's part will be adequately done if she contributes to the safety of southern seas and to the movement of Europe of foodstuffs.

Brazil's fleet is the largest in South America.

Muskegon—Money Abraham Slag-huis makes on his 20-acre farm of beans will be invested in Liberty bonds, he said.

Jackson—John Hutchins, 25 years old, was suffocated from a cave-in at a ditch he was digging.

Mt. Clemens—Judge Rode of the probate court, granted a widow's pension of $3 per week to Mrs. Charles Willet. She has three small children dependent for support. The father was drowned in the Clinton river several months ago.

St. Clair—This city, with a population of 2,799, raised a total of $10,864, or $4 for every inhabitant, for the Red Cross fund. There was only one subscription as high as $150 from one person, the majority of the contributions being between 50 cents and $10.

Calumet—H. C. Mather, 48 years old, Cincinnati, O., general manager and president of the Moore Oil Co., drowned in Lake Superior when his canoe was overturned by a wave. Abner Sherman, Calumet, was in the canoe but swam ashore.

Grand Lodge—An electric line between this city and Lansing will be assured with the disposal of $5,000 in stock here of the company, which will be capitalized at $200,000.

Detroit—Jno. Kalina, 26 years old, was arrested following the finding of the body of an unidentified man lying in a box at Clark avenue and the Michigan Central railroad tracks by Sidney Strelinger, a car checker. Kalina was sleeping in the box car in which the body was found and when questioned at the Vinewood avenue police station, claimed he had not seen the dead man.

15 DIE WHEN BOAT OVERTURNS TOWER

EXCURSION STEAMER LITS DOCK CAUSING RESERVOIR TO FALL ON DECK.

TRAGEDY IS UNEXPLAINED

More Than 400 Excursionists Aboard Famous Whaleback, When Accident Occurs.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Fifteen persons are known to have been killed and more than 20 were injured, some mortally, when a huge steel water tower overturned on the prow of the great whaleback steamer, Christopher Columbus, in the Milwaukee river Saturday.

More than 400 persons, excursionists and university students from Chicago, were on board the steamer.

The big whaleback, made famous by the lake excursions at the World's Fair in Chicago, was on her way out of the river on a return trip to Chicago when the accident occurred.

She was rounding a sharp turn in the river when her bow crashed into the dock along the front of the five-story Yahr & Lang warehouse.

The shock of the impact loosened the fastenings of a great steel sprinkler system water tank on the roof of the building, sending it crashing down on the deck of the ship among hundreds of men, women and children.

The officers of the boat could give no explanation for the tragedy. They said James Brody, pilot, was at the wheel at the time and that the wheel failed to respond. An unconfirmed report was to the effect that one of the tugs guiding the big vessel had its hawser cast off too soon.

The heads of the government have decided to launch another and greater Liberty bond drive early in September.

SECOND BIG LOAN DRIVE COMING

Government Plans to Float Three Billion Issue in September.

Washington.—The people of the United States are to be given but a few weeks' financial breathing spell, following the $2,000,000,000 Liberty bond sale and the $100,000,000 Red Cross humanity drive, before being asked to unloosen their purse strings to a much greater extent.

The heads of the government have decided to launch another and greater Liberty bond drive early in September.

Of the authorization of $5,000,000,000 in war bonds by congress there remain $3,000,000,000 yet to be sold. The plan is to issue the entire $3,000,000,000 at one time and call upon the people to oversubscribe this second loan, just as the first $3,000,000,000 was oversubscribed.

The second big loan drive is to be prosecuted along somewhat different lines from those followed in the Liberty number. Inspired by the tremendous number of small subscriptions to the first loan the $3,000,000,000 issue is to be put out in even smaller denominations. The new bonds, as now planned, will be issued in denominations as low as $10. Plans, talked of for some time now agreed upon to make it certain that bonds will be sold over the counters of department and cigar stores and perhaps other retail establishments.

GERMAN SHIPS PUT IN SERVICE

Vessels Seized At Outbreak of War Turned Over to Shipping Board.

Washington.—Eighty-seven of the German merchant ships seized in American ports at the outbreak of war have been turned over by President Wilson to the shipping board for operation. The other 14 already are in possession of the navy department.

Title to the vessels was vested in the president in a resolution passed by congress in May. Many of them already have been repaired and put into service by the shipping board, awaiting the executive order giving it formal jurisdiction.

The total tonnage of the 87 ships exceeds 500,000.

Several have gone to the war department for transports, but it has not been decided definitely whether they are to remain under control of the department or will revert to the shipping board. The president's order nominally puts all under the board's control.

SIX BROTHERS BELONG TO GUARD

All of Them Are Beyond Age Limit of Registration.

Denver, Col.—Six stalwart sons of one family, although beyond the age limit of registration, are in the national guard of Colorado, and the mother, Mrs. Mary A. Chase, is very proud.

The oldest son is Alpha M. Chase, 44; Willis G. is 42; James A. 32; Lawrence A. 35; Sylvanus L. 33 and Benjamin T., the "baby," 31. Their uncle, Dr. John Chase, was adjutant-general of the Colorado national guard.

Calumet—H. C. Mather, 48 years old, Cincinnati, O., general manager and president of the Moore Oil Co., drowned in Lake Superior when his canoe was overturned by a wave. Abner Sherman, Calumet, was in the canoe but swam ashore.

Grand Lodge—An electric line between this city and Lansing will be assured with the disposal of $5,000 in stock here of the company, which will be capitalized at $200,000.

NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

Two Contingents of Pershing's Army Are Landed Safely on French Soil.

UNDER COMMAND OF SIBERT

Developments in Plans to Control Foodstuffs and Coal—Good Work of Root and Kerevsky in Russia—British Troops Closing in on Lens.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Two contingents of Major General Pershing's expeditionary force of American regulars were safely landed in France last week; the first on Tuesday and the second on Wednesday.

The armada that carried them across the Atlantic and that conveyed them to their present quarters, the troops now on French soil are under the immediate command of Brig. Gen. W. L. Sibert.

This safe and speedy arrival of seasoned fighting men in France is a triumph of American skill and efficiency. Without any publicity, the troops were assembled, embarked on a coast vessel and taken through the German submarine zone without an accident to mar the success of the great operation.

That these troops and the thousands that are to follow them carry all their own supplies makes them a net gain for the allies. The United States feeds, clothes, arms and equips them without making a single demand on the French or the British.

General Pershing has prepared everything for the participation of his army in the actual warfare, and a section of the line near St. Quentin is to be turned over to the Americans.

It developed on Thursday that George Creel, civilian head of the committee on public information, authorized the publication of the news of the arrival of the troops contrary to the wishes of the war department, whereupon Secretary Baker withdrew the dissemination of war department news from the jurisdiction of Creel's organization and appointed General McIntyre sole censor and disseminator of war department news.

Coal and Wheat Embargo. President Wilson appointed a board of export control, composed of the secretaries of commerce, state and labor and the food administrator, and the board at once began gathering data on which it recommended that the president place at least partial embargoes on wheat and bunker coal, and possibly on other commodities.

The shutting-off of shipments of foodstuffs to certain neutral countries, it is believed, will nearly put an end to their sending of food to the central powers. An embargo on bunker coal not only will help in controlling neutral and other shipping, but also will give to the shipping board a weapon to force down present exorbitant ocean freight rates.

Speaking of coal, the coal committee of the council of national defense scored a big victory Tuesday when it "persuaded" 400 coal barons to agree to sell their product at a reasonable price to be fixed with the approval of the committee. The operators, who represented both the bituminous and the anthracite fields, were told flatly that unless they behaved themselves, the government would take over their output.

The immediate result of all this was the agreement of the bituminous operators to make cuts of $1 to $3 a ton in the cost of coal to the jobbers. This, it was declared, would bring about an immediate reduction of prices to the consumer.

Consideration of the food-control bill with its "bone-dry" feature, which the house passed, occupied much of the time of the senators. Their committee modified the prohibition clause in such a way that the making of distilled liquors and beer would be ended while the manufacture of wine would not. The attack on beer brought on a stubborn fight when the bill came up for consideration in the senate Thursday, and Mr. Lodge and others denounced the effort of the prohibitionists to prohibit with the food question a time when the war requires for successful conduct of the war is a united people. The bill as it stands conforms to the president the most extraordinary powers ever granted by the American nation.

Restoring Order in Russia. With calm, sympathetic talk and commonsense advice, Elihu Root and his colleagues on the American mission are aiding Kerensky to bring some semblance of order out of the chaos in Russia. In Petrograd, Moscow and many other places the Americans have addressed throngs of soldiers, workmen and peasants, and have made it plain to them that the United States means to help them to retain their new-found freedom, but that it cannot be retained unless, with their active aid, the despotic autocracy of Germany is crushed. Rear Admiral Glennon is credited with having quieted the mutiny of the men of the Russian Black sea fleet.

Minister of War Kerensky is becoming a heroic figure, fiercely withstanding the attacks of his enemies and fast gaining for the provisional government the support of the masses. He is determined that Russia shall resume the offensive against the central powers, and is backed in this by the councils of delegates and by the women of the land. The latter by thousands have enlisted in the army and demand a chance to fight. The congress of Cossacks also gave the provisional government a vote of complete confidence and full support.

Uncle Sam is determined to set the new republic of Russia on its feet if it is possible to do so, and is giving every aid that can be devised. The latest evidence of our government's benign intent is the appointment by President Wilson of a commission of sanitary social, medical and food-distribution experts that will start at once for Petrograd and make a survey of the civil needs of the people of Russia, and then try to help them to help themselves. Dr. Frank Billings, an eminent Chicago physician, heads the commission, the other members including Raymond Robins, Harold H. Swift, Dr. Wilbur D. Post, Dr. W. S. Thayer of Johns Hopkins university, and Prof. Charles Winslow of Yale.

Venezuela Controls in Greece. As was foreseen, young King Alexander of Greece has agreed to do what over the allies wish him to do, and he began by dismissing the Zaimis ministry and inviting Venizelos to form a new cabinet. The new ministers took office Wednesday. Venizelos has said that he would like to have Greece join the allies as an active opponent of Germany, but will not force this course of action against the will of the people. Meanwhile, French troops are in control in Athens and other centers. Ex-King Constantine is now in Switzerland, where he has purchased a magnificent chateau.

The situation in the southeast naturally is worrying Bulgaria, which is in the war for what she can get, and now sees that her dear wish to get Macedonia and Dobruja may not be fulfilled. Bulgaria has been reluctant to break formally with the United States, but according to Copenhagen reports she may soon take such action as the price of concessions from Germany.

The Spanish censorship has shut down tight on all news from that country, and the government is struggling to weather the crisis that has come upon it. On Tuesday the constitutional guarantees were suspended once more, and Premier Dato declares the nation is calm. This, however, is not in accord with the information given out in London, where it is expected that a revolution will soon break out in Spain.

DUMBA OUTLINES PEACE PLAN

Former Ambassador's Proposals Hardly Likely to Find Favor With the Allied Powers.

Dr. Constantin Dumba, the former Austrian ambassador at Washington, in an article in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, advocates peace without annexations or indemnities, "however desirable," and that formula may sound to the Chauvinists.

Doctor Dumba, speaking from the Austro-Hungarian standpoint, considers that the Serbian danger can be held in check by the permanent winning of our turbulent neighbor, and our own territories remain untouched, we shall have every reason to welcome such a solution.

Doctor Dumba's peace plan can be summarized as follows: Russia to restore the occupied Austro-Hungarian territory, while she regains the Russian territory occupied by the Austro-Germans.

The re-establishment of Poland, Austria to make certain "frontier rectifications," for reasons of strategic safety, (for instance she ought to retain possession of Belgrade and Mount Lovchen in Montenegro).

The Roumanian wheat crops must be secured for the use of the central powers by treaty.

Italy must evacuate Valone (Abruzzo) and free navigation of the Adriatic must be guaranteed.

Bulgaria must be left in possession of Dobruja and the Bulgarian part of Macedonia.

Two Contingents of Pershing's Army Are Landed Safely on French Soil.

UNDER COMMAND OF SIBERT

Developments in Plans to Control Foodstuffs and Coal—Good Work of Root and Kerevsky in Russia—British Troops Closing in on Lens.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Two contingents of Major General Pershing's expeditionary force of American regulars were safely landed in France last week; the first on Tuesday and the second on Wednesday.

The armada that carried them across the Atlantic and that conveyed them to their present quarters, the troops now on French soil are under the immediate command of Brig. Gen. W. L. Sibert.

This safe and speedy arrival of seasoned fighting men in France is a triumph of American skill and efficiency. Without any publicity, the troops were assembled, embarked on a coast vessel and taken through the German submarine zone without an accident to mar the success of the great operation.

That these troops and the thousands that are to follow them carry all their own supplies makes them a net gain for the allies. The United States feeds, clothes, arms and equips them without making a single demand on the French or the British.

General Pershing has prepared everything for the participation of his army in the actual warfare, and a section of the line near St. Quentin is to be turned over to the Americans.

It developed on Thursday that George Creel, civilian head of the committee on public information, authorized the publication of the news of the arrival of the troops contrary to the wishes of the war department, whereupon Secretary Baker withdrew the dissemination of war department news from the jurisdiction of Creel's organization and appointed General McIntyre sole censor and disseminator of war department news.

The Secrets of the Hohenzollerns

STARTLING EXPOSURE OF INNER LIFE OF KAISER AND CROWN PRINCE AS TOLD BY COUNT ERNST VON HELTZENDORFF TO WILLIAM LEQUEUX

EDITORIAL NOTE.—William Lequeux, who here chronicles for his friend, Count Ernst von Helldendorff, the latter's revelations of the inner life of the Hohenzollerns, has long been recognized throughout Europe as the possessor of its innermost secrets.

The English "Who's Who" says of him: "He has intimate knowledge of the secret service of Continental countries and is considered by the government (of Great Britain) an authority on such matters." Another authority says: "Few people have been more closely associated with or known more of the astounding inner machinery of Germany than he."

Lequeux probably has more sources of secret information at his command than any contemporary in civil life, and for the last six years the British Government has made valuable use of his vast store of secret information through a specially organized department with which Lequeux works as a voluntary assistant.

Count von Helldendorff became an intimate of Lequeux several years prior to the outbreak of the war; he has been living in retirement in France since August, 1914, and it was there that Lequeux received from the crown prince the personal admission to him to make public these revelations of the inner life of the Hohenzollerns—that the democracies of the world might come to know the real, but heretofore hidden, personalities of the two dominant members of the autocracy they are now arrayed against.

The Kaiser's Secret Trip to the Hague.

ONE May morning in 1907 I was walking on the terrace of the Castle of Huisburg, at that time in the possession of the late Freiherr von Stumm, whom the emperor often visited.

I think, however, that our host became secretly irritated at the frequent visits of his imperial guest, for certainly what with the establishment of the special telegraph to Berlin and the special post office, and the finding of accommodation for the crowd of persons attending, each visit must have cost poor old von Stumm a considerable amount.

I had already been busy upstairs in the room allotted to me, and had come out to take a walk in the warm and welcome sunshine, when suddenly I saw the emperor in a suit of brown civilian clothes striding towards me. He seemed to be in a humorous mood and joked with me as I walked beside him.

Suddenly he halted, as though recollecting something and asked: "Heltzendorff, have you with you some of our paper for important documents?"

"Certainly," was my reply. "Ah! then please place some of it with envelopes upon my table, and also wire to Berlin to send here ten couriers."

"Ten couriers?" I echoed in surprise. "Yes, ten. I may want even twelve or more."

Just before eight o'clock that night I was informed that the couriers were waiting below, and—on descending found six of the imperial messengers and four from the ministry of foreign affairs, ready to travel anywhere, even to the uttermost ends of the earth.

A Stupendous Hoax.
On informing his majesty, the latter handed to me about thirty of the great blue envelopes containing "documents of the highest importance," addressed in his own hand to various officers of state, princes, princesses, and other prominent people in all parts of the empire.

"These are to be taken at once," Heltzendorff, the emperor said. "The messengers are to bring us replies."

"In every case?" I asked. "Yes, in every case," he answered. Then I carried the batch of correspondence below, and much puzzled at the nature of this latest activity in private letter-writing, I handed them to the couriers, who sorted them out and distributed them among themselves.

Half an hour later the documents were being conveyed to various parts of the empire.

When I returned to the study I found the Kaiser laughing quietly to himself, and wondered what could be the reason. He signed some documents I read to him, but ever and anon a broad smile would cross his usually stern features.

Until a week afterwards I did not learn the cause of the imperial merriment, but when I did I burst into loud laughter myself.

Those envelopes containing "documents of highest importance" each contained only a comic postcard, which the emperor had purchased during a visit to Saarbrück.

The Kaiser had played a huge joke upon those whom he despised, for the delivery of these formidable imperial dispatches created a great stir in the households of their recipients. Old princes were awakened in the middle of the night to be handed a dispatch from the emperor; old princesses jumped out of bed to receive an imperial communication; officers took open the envelopes eagerly expecting high appointments; the admiral of the grand fleet believed that war had been declared; and insignificant foreign diplomats were under the impression that the emperor had at last deigned to notice them.

The whole thing was a huge joke invented by the Kaiser on the castle terrace, and the court and the imperial family were in fits of laughter over it for a week.

A Message to the Emperor.
One afternoon when we were back again at the palace at Potsdam the emperor was explaining to me a certain order he wished carried out. Presently one of the funkeys entered with a private note from his majesty. The emperor read it, and instantly I saw that his countenance grew pale and his manner changed.

He read it again, and then re-read it. His lips compressed, his eyebrows narrowed, and his cheeks unduly pale.

Afterwards he struck a match and burned the letter in the grate. That missive no doubt contained some grave news, the nature of which I could not guess, because he suddenly abandoned his work, and telling me to meet him in the study at eight o'clock that evening, he strode out.

When he had gone out I picked up the blackened tinder and examined it, but it was so charred that I could not read any word, though from the two or three marks of the pen I realized that it had been written by the hand of a woman.

An hour later I learned that the emperor had left Potsdam. He had by receipt of that letter evidently become seriously perturbed. I called the funkies who had handed him the missive and questioned him. He had received it from another servant, until at last I discovered that it had been handed by a young girl to one of the sentries on duty outside the palace, who in due course had sent it to his majesty.

While passing along one of the corridors that evening I met bald-headed old von Klupfel, who was at that time grand chamberlain, and he beckoned me into his cozy room. Then, when the door was closed, he asked:

"What has happened? The emperor has left incognito and all of a sudden. The state ball tomorrow night has been cancelled."

"Cancelled?" I echoed. "Where has the emperor gone?"

"Nobody knows—except Herman, his personal valet, whom he has taken with him."

"Curious," I remarked, thinking of the letter, though, of course, I told von Klupfel nothing of it. Whatever transpired within his majesty's study was always regarded as a strict secret. More than one serious family quarrel had occurred there in my presence.

"Well, something serious has certainly occurred. That is my belief," declared the old chamberlain. "Uncle Zeppelin was coming to the palace tomorrow on a visit, and I have just sent him a telegram to postpone his journey."

"But his majesty had two important engagements tomorrow, and, in addition, a military parade in Berlin," I said.

"All is cancelled, my dear von Heltzendorff," replied the old fellow. "The emperor has left for a destination unknown. I suppose I had better report his absence to the imperial chancery."

"No, if I were you I would say nothing," replied. "For some private reason his majesty has evidently been forced to go on a journey. Without doubt I shall hear from him tomorrow. As soon as I do so I will tell you."

A Telephone Message From "Herr Zeller."

My expectation was realized, for the next day just after six o'clock in the evening I received a telegram dispatched from Hanover in Holland, ordering me to go to the Adlon hotel, in Berlin, at once and register there. The concluding words of the message, sent in English, were: "You will receive a telephone call at 10:30 tonight."

It was signed "Zeller," one of the names used by the emperor when he traveled incognito.

I ordered the car and drove into Berlin, taking with me a small bag, and engaged a room in Herr Adlon's hotel, in which was a telephone.

Soon after ten o'clock I told the telephone operator that if anyone rang me I should be in my room.

Half-past ten came, and then slowly the hands of the clock passed round to eleven, and past.

Suddenly there was a sharp ring, and I took up the receiver.

A strange voice sounding far away asked for me, and I replied in the affirmative.

Then in a few seconds another voice—which I instantly recognized as the emperor's—asked in English:

"Is that you, von Heltzendorff?" and having received my reply, he said: "I am Zeller, speaking from the Hotel des Indes, at The Hague. Will you tell madame I am here? Instruct Klupfel to cancel all my engagements for the next fortnight, and tomorrow night come here and bring any papers

A LETTER FROM THE CROWN PRINCE'S PERSONAL ADJUTANT TO WILLIAM LEQUEUX, POSSESSOR OF THE SECRETS OF EUROPE.

Venezus Nadon,
par Morel-sur-Loing,
Seine-et-Marne,
February 10th, 1917.

My dear Lequeux:
I have just finished reading the proofs of your articles describing my life as an official at the imperial court at Potsdam, and the two or three small errors you made I have duly corrected.

The gross scandals and wily intrigues which I have related to you were many of them known to yourself, for, as the intimate friend of Louis, the ex-crown prince of Saxony, you were, before the war, closely associated with many of those at court whose names appear in these articles.

The revelations which I have made, and which you have recorded here, are but a tithe of the disclosures which I could make, and if the world desired more, I should be pleased to furnish you with other and even more startling details, which you may also put into print.

My service as personal adjutant to the German crown prince is, happily, at an end, and now, with the treachery of Germany against civilization glaringly revealed, I feel, in my retirement, no compunction in exposing all I know concerning the secrets of the Kaiser and his son.

With most cordial greetings from my home, I am, dear Lequeux, your sincere friend, (Signed) ERNST VON HELTZENDORFF.

that I have to attend to. It would be as well to tell them at my office that I have been called to Hamburg. Can you hear me?"

"Perfectly," was my reply. "I quite understand your orders, sir, and will attend to them at once. I shall leave for The Hague tomorrow night."

"Good. And bring me another suit of civilian clothes."

Then there was a sudden buzzing in the instrument, a sharp click, and all was again silence.

I put down the receiver in wonder. I saw that to telephone to me at the palace was impossible, as it would go through the exchange there, and somebody might be listening. For that reason he had sent me to the Adlon, and from his conversation he was evidently representing himself at The Hague to be a prosperous German merchant, as he had done at Nice and other places.

I passed on, and entering a cafe, sat down to smoke and to think. Memory of that woman's face still haunted me. I felt that I had met her somewhere, and had had good cause to remember her, yet, for the life of me, I could not recall the circumstances of our meeting.

An hour later, on returning to the hotel, I saw her speaking with the concierge.

She was evidently staying there, hence a few minutes afterwards, when she had ascended the lift, I questioned the man, and learned that she was Madame Rosales, from Malaga, in Spain. She had arrived with her husband three days ago, but monsieur had left the same morning for Paris, and she was now awaiting his return.

The motive of the emperor, usually so restless and pompous, in remaining virtually a prisoner in the hotel, and posing as a merchant, was certainly most mysterious, and even a chat with Herman, his majesty's chief valet, elicited no information.

That night, as I sat alone eating my dinner—for Herr Zeller took his meals in his private sitting room—the dark-haired woman sat at a table near me. With her was a pretty girl in a pink dinner gown, evidently a friend who lived in the town.

The pair chatted together and laughed merrily over their meal, while I watched them covertly.

Why I cannot even now tell, but I held Madame Rosales in distinct suspicion. Yet I could not recollect where we had met before. Now, however, as I sat there in the corner eating my meal, I felt convinced that, on her part, she had recognized me, and, further, that she had pointed me out to her companion.

Later in the evening I made other inquiries in the hotel, and learned that Madame had several friends. The evening that her husband left for Paris a tall, thin, pale-faced young man had called upon her after dinner, and had a long chat with her in a corner in the lounge. Afterwards they went out together for a short walk, and, returning, he smoked a cigar before he left.

On the following day another man, of rather unkempt appearance, called and lunched with her.

Needless to say, I watched Madame carefully, and managed during that evening to catch several glances of her. After the pair had dined they spent a short time in the lounge, where they both smoked cigarettes. Then, it being a beautiful moonlight night, they put on their coats and went for a stroll.

The Emperor Peeps In.
So interested had I become in the woman that I followed, and, unsuspecting, I dogged their footsteps for nearly half a mile, until they entered a dark, forbidding-looking house which faced a weedy canal.

When the door opened a man greeted them, and slipping in quickly, they disappeared.

They were there for over an hour—yet I remained keeping constant vigil, until at last Madame emerged alone, retracing her steps hurriedly to the hotel.

Next morning I met her in the lift at about eleven o'clock, and we descended together. She was dressed to go out, but in the hall the porter handed her a telegram. This she opened, afterwards writing a reply, and taking it herself to the post office.

I was much irritated because my floor that he was a pretty officer for his shillings a week and lots of unnecessary for the cold weather and I have three children who is been the father of them. Hoping you will write to me as soon as you are well as it leaves me at present, I must now close hoping you are well.

memory was so at fault. There were, I felt, some peculiar circumstances connected with the woman at the time I had known her, but what they were I could not recall. I saw, however, that her memory was better than my own, and that she knew me, and because of that fact had already grown apprehensive.

It was not in Berlin society that I had met her. Of that I felt assured; just as certain, indeed, that her real name was not Rosales.

While I had been out watching the woman on the previous night the emperor had also taken a stroll through the city. What I wondered, would the Berlin police have thought if they knew that William was walking about at night unguarded and unattended at The Hague.

As I sat with him attending to some correspondence—and taking down a number of instructions regarding important matters at the Wilhelmstrasse, he suddenly broke off and told me he had had, on the previous night, spent an hour drinking Dutch beer at that popular resort of tradesmen and their wives, the Royal Brasserie.

"Nobody recognized me," he laughed. "I found out that they sold the best beer one can get outside Germany, and I really enjoyed it. I sent for you, but you had already gone out. Did you go to the theater?"

"No," was my reply, and then I told him practically what I have related in the foregoing lines.

"How curious!" exclaimed his majesty. "I would much like to see this mysterious Spanish lady. She must be interesting."

At first I tried to dissuade him, but he was so persistent that I described at what table she sat at lunch, and it was agreed between us that while we were eating our meal he should come to the door of the dining room and peep in.

This the emperor did, and cleverly too, for she never saw him, being at that moment engaged in conversation with a waiter.

When I rejoined him in his room he said: "No, Heltzendorff, I have never seen her before."

"Well, majesty," I declared, "I am certain I have seen her or her photograph somewhere, and that she is not what she represents herself to be."

"She's an adventuress most probably," replied the emperor. "Many women are. Indeed, it is difficult to discover one who does not adventure either in love, in politics, or in crime."

A Trip to Berlin for Information.
His words impressed me. An hour later I went to a photographer's and arranged for a surreptitious portrait to be taken of Madame Rosales the next time she took a walk.

All day the young photographer haunted the vicinity of the hotel until the light faded. Yet next morning as she came out she snapped her without her knowledge, and in three hours I had a rough print of it in my pocket.

That night, after writing down a great mass of memoranda, instructions to various departments of the state, I left again for Berlin, with orders to ring up Herr Zeller on the telephone from some unsuspecting place every night at ten o'clock.

I returned to the Berlin Schloss absolutely mystified, and next day spent the greater part of the time visiting the chancery and the various ministries, and giving them the emperor's commands. Then at about six o'clock I called at the chief bureau of police in the Alexander Platz, and entered the private room of old Leibbrand, who at that time was chief of the detective service.

To him I showed the surreptitious photograph of Madame Rosales. The astute thief catcher removed his spectacles, and examining the picture with the aid of a big reading glass, gave vent to a loud grunt.

In response to his bell a younger and more alert man entered, and to him he handed the photograph, saying: "Please see if anyone recognizes this. I believe I do—but I may be mistaken."

He then became inquisitive as to where and how I had obtained the picture, but naturally I said nothing.

"I've been away on a journey," I said, "and meeting the woman, I thought her suspicious."

"And if my memory serves me properly I think, Count, that your suspicions are very well grounded."

"Why?" I asked. "Let us wait for the report from outside," replied the old fellow. Then, in order to turn the conversation, he asked news of Balz, who was at that moment the detective in attendance on the Kaiser's person, and whose vigilance the emperor had, of course, evaded.

"Oh! He's at Potsdam," I laughed. "I haven't seen him lately, for I've been away on a mission."

"The emperor is in Thuringia," Leibbrand said. "There seems to be some mystery as to his whereabouts, but Balz telephoned me today to say that his majesty has gone to Thuringia without any staff or personal attendants."

"That is so, I believe," was my reply, but I smiled, for the Thuringia myth had been invented by myself before I had left for Holland. It is at any time difficult to impose upon the Berlin police, but, of course, news given out officially from the court they naturally believe to be the truth.

Peril of the Emperor.
A quarter of an hour later Leibbrand's assistant re-entered the room, and, handing back the photograph, placed a file of papers before his chief, saying:

"The woman is a famous Spanish dancer, and one of the most active members of the anarchist society of Geneva—the society which committed the bomb outrage upon King Alfonso, and who were responsible for the recent attempt on the king of Italy."

"An anarchist?" I gasped. "Yes," answered the official. "And a very dangerous one, too. If she put foot into Germany, we should have her at once under lock and key."

"Why?"
"Because it is known that there is a conspiracy on foot, organized by that league in Geneva, against his majesty the emperor. We had news of it from the Swiss police a month ago."

"Is there really a plot against the emperor?" I asked, much startled. "There certainly is in Geneva," replied Leibbrand. "At the present moment we are watching for this dancer's appearance in Germany. I thought I was not mistaken when I first saw her picture."

I stood in that bare official room utterly staggered. I dared not tell those two men the truth or give them warning of the emperor's peril.

I saw, however, that I must act instantly. In five minutes I had gathered that the woman was one of the most dangerous anarchists in Europe, and I also realized that my memory had served me very well, inasmuch as I had seen her picture in an illustrated paper a year before, when she had been arrested in Rome in connection with an alleged attempt upon the life of the king.

"Herr Leibbrand, will you please write down for me the facts you have just related?" I urged.

"Most certainly," was his reply, and taking up his pen he scribbled the truth, signing it with a flourish.

Eighteen hours later I ascended the lift at the Hotel des Indes to the suite occupied by Herr Zeller.

Without waste of time I produced the snapshot photograph and asked him whether he recognized it.

"Certainly," was his reply. "It is Madame Rosales," adding, laughingly, "I became acquainted with her and her husband in a curious manner in the lift last night. We were ascending together, madame, who wore a soft blue evening blouse, standing next to me. Unfortunately the button on the wrist of my coat caught in the sleeve of her blouse and tore it very badly. I apologized for ruining the blouse, and insisted that her husband should send the damaged garment to me so that I might replace it with something better. It arrived only five minutes ago, and is in that little box over there," and he indicated a cardboard box lying on the couch.

"Ah! You haven't opened it, I see?" I exclaimed. "Your majesty must not open it! Please read this!" And I put before him Leibbrand's signed statement of the identity of Madame Rosales.

When the emperor read it he instantly realized the situation.

Luring the Kaiser.
"Ah! I see it all, Heltzendorff. My practical joking becoming known, the anarchists have taken advantage of it. I have been lured here, out of Germany, by a cleverly conceived dodge, for I came here believing that I was to meet in secret General Oranowski, chief of the czar's military cabinet, who wished to confer with me. And though he was due three days ago he has not arrived. Instead, this woman and her friends are busy plotting my death."

"Without a doubt. Probably had you opened that box yonder it might have been fatal," I said. "Is it not wise to leave at once for Berlin?"

Herr Zeller acted promptly upon my suggestion, and we carried back to Germany the box containing the actress' blouse. Next day in my presence, the box was carefully opened in the military laboratory, when we found, wrapped in a pretty blue crepe de chine blouse with heavy-headed trimming, a small canister filled with a high explosive, the fuse so arranged that had the string of the box been suddenly released by cutting in the ordinary way a terrible explosion must have ensued.

Certainly the emperor very nearly lost his life as a result of his own practical joking.

As for the Spanish dancing girl, she apparently followed the emperor, for two days later she and a man named Ferroni, a well-known Italian anarchist who was posing as her husband, were arrested at Herbestal when about to enter Prussia, and both were eventually sent to prison for ten years.

THOSE AWFUL CRAMPS

Suggestions that may save Much Suffering

Maryville, Pa.—"For twelve years I suffered with terrible cramps. I would have to stay in bed several days every month. I tried all kinds of remedies and was treated by doctors, but my trouble continued until one day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others. I tried it and now I am never troubled with cramps and feel like a different woman. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly and I am recommending it to my friends who suffer as I did."

WAS OVERRULED BY HIS SON

Sir Edward Carson Tells How the Young Man Got into the British Army.

Sir Edward Carson introduced a personal note into a speech which he made the other day when he was the guest of the British Empire Producers' organization, at the Savoy hotel, says the London Chronicle.

"I remember," said Sir Edward, "when a little son of mine came to me and said 'Father, I want to join the navy class at school.' I said, 'What rubbish! You are going to be a lawyer.' He told me plainly that I was wrong, and I explained to him how much better it would be to make money in the Temple than lose it at sea. He said, 'You don't seem to recognize the importance of the navy; it is the great connecting link between the mother country and the colonies.'"

"I replied, 'Well, if you put it on that high plane, I must alter my views.' He is now commanding a submarine, and only yesterday, in my capacity of first lord of the admiralty, I had to read an account of an attempt of one of our destroyers to sink his submarine."

Between twenty-five and thirty years ago I commenced selling Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and during all that time I have never heard a single complaint from my customers; they are more inclined to praise it, and judging from their favorable remarks and the repeated sales I enjoy—I am confident that Swamp-Root is a valuable medicine for the troubles for which it is adapted.

De Profundis.
At the summer training camp at Plattsburg last summer an undersized "rookie" was one day struggling along through mud that threatened to engulf him and his pack. The company were singing, and when they came to the chorus he joined in with groans and grumbles that seemed to come from well down toward his belt. Beyond doubt, melody was not his forte. A big, hulking sergeant came along.

"What's the matter? What are you howling about?"

"I'm singing bass," explained the "rookie."

"Don't do it, my boy," said the sergeant; "you're too deep down already. You came up to surface and get the air."—Youth's Companion.

Too Much for Him.
"Conscription has, maybe, saved the country," growled the strapping young soldier, "but what I object to is the company it draws a man into. I am a practical plumber by trade, an honest workman, yet I'm compelled to suffer the society of such professionals as a lawyer, a musician and an auctioneer."

"No, a bad selection, Jack," remarked his friend.

"Oh, maybe no in a way; but when the minister and the lawyer start an argument on Egyptian law in the middle of the night across half a dozen beds, with the blessed auctioneer as umpire, what chance has even a practical plumber of stoppin' the gas leak?"

Always.
"What does your electricity cost you?"

"Oh, I pay current prices,"—Boston Transcript.

use as well as beauty, for the scholars in our home mission schools. Get a bundle of Post Toasties of different colors. Have the children cut them into postcard size and carefully paste them over the writing on used cards. When given to the pupils they prove of great help to them as well as to their teachers.—Exchange.

The children could easily make these gifts for those across the sea. The pretty motto and greeting cards may be converted into things of upper corners for hanging. The recipients of a missionary box in China, were delighted with groups of six cards mounted on colored cambric, which had been pinked around the edges. The missionaries declared "they were pretty enough to hang in our own home," but they were sent to some of the schools, and delighted the pupils, who see few attractive things.

Mount the pretty cards on colored cardboard five by eight inches, attaching a cord or ribbon to the two floor that he was a pretty officer for his shillings a week and lots of unnecessary for the cold weather and I have three children who is been the father of them. Hoping you will write to me as soon as you are well as it leaves me at present, I must now close hoping you are well.

MAXOTIRES

Maxotires Hold Fast to Tires

A heavy coat of vulcanizing cement covers the rubber tread of the Maxotire. After a Maxotire is inserted in the shoe it adheres and vulcanizes to it—just like if you were to cement your inner tube in the casing. There is NO FRICTION, NO HEATING and no chance for the Maxotire to wrinkle up and injure the inner tube.

Maxotires are Very Pliable

The patent semi cure of the Maxotire leaves it very soft and pliable. It is necessary that the Maxotire be pliable or it would be impossible for it to adhere to the tire.

Maxotires are of Long Life

Full cured rubber would soon rot, while the PATENT SEMI-CURE of the Maxotire prevents it from deteriorating with age. The Maxotire will last for a long time for there is nothing to wear it out—no rubbing or wearing on the tires for it is a part of it. You use the STRENGTH of the Maxotire only, consequently it does not wear out like your tire.

TO THE CAR OWNERS

The same old question is asked, "Why don't the tire manufacturers use this Maxotire?" The reason is that it is patented, and the K. & W. Rubber Co. of Ashland, Ohio, are not ready to sell, and we are ready to answer any question on the Maxotire that you may ask. Read the above for it will tell you if the Maxotire heats or not. MAXOTIRES beats the EVIL of motoring—that is BLOW-OUTS and puts the vulcanizers bill in the bank, which in a year or so will be a large payment on that new car.

HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBER

Do you feel safe riding on a screen door spring? That is comparing the ordinary shock absorber with the Hassler which is the best on the market.

Phone or ask about them and the Maxotire

PEDIGREED GRAINS PRODUCE BIG CROPS

Strains Must Be Pure, However, to Be Certified.

REQUIRE CARE IN THRESHING

Mixing in Threshing, or Introducing Impurities in Other Ways, Will Bar Seed From Pedigreed
Class.

By PROF. F. A. SPRAGG,
Plant Breeder, Experiment Station,
Michigan Agricultural College.
East Lansing, Mich.—There have been developed by the experiment station of the Michigan Agricultural college in recent years improved strains of wheat, oats, rye and barley which by repeated tests have been proved to be superior in yielding power, and in a number of other qualities, to any other strains of these crops grown in the state. All of these varieties have been built up, by careful selection, from a single seed. In the case of Red Rock wheat, the first planting from which this variety has grown,
was made in the fall of 1908.

After a time enough seed was produced from this original experiment to enable the college to distribute this variety among a number of selected farmers, by whom 4,000 acres of this superior wheat are expected to be harvested this season.

All of this should be saved to be marketed for seed purposes, but if its holders desire to have the grain inspected and certified by the college and the Michigan Crop Improvement association every care must be exercised to see that the wheat isn't mixed.
These precautions are necessary for this reason: Red Rock wheat, it has been demonstrated, will yield from five to ten bushels per acre or superior

A FIELD OF MICHIGAN WINTER
BARLEY IN EAST LANSING.

This strain of barley, and other
"pedigreed" varieties of wheat, oats and rye yield crops from 33 to 50 per cent better than the average. They furnish a short cut to increased production.

grain more than any other white wheat grown in the state. If all this improved strain can be planted this fall it will bring about a big increase in production next season, and more in 1910 without so much as the breaking of an additional acre of ground—a factor highly important in the light of the expense in men and money which attends increasing acreage.

In addition to the Red Rock wheat,
"pedigreed" varieties of oats, barley
and rye have also been distributed.
Years of tests of these grains, including the wheat, have proved that they will yield the following, in bushels per acre,
as compared with other strains:

RED ROCK WHEAT.
Common wheat, average.....	35.7 bu.
Red Rock state average.....	33.0 bu.
OATS.
Common variety, average.....	31.5 bu.
Worthy oats, state average.....	33.0 bu.
Common variety, average.....	35.0 bu.
Rosen rye, state average.....	40.0 bu.

The adoption of these improved strains by the farmers of Michigan would, without question, bring about an increase in production with less cost and greater returns than is possible by any other single means.

But the men who have these strains in their possession now, and those who may plant them later, must recognize that if these varieties are to be kept pure, and their high yielding qualities maintained, every possibility of their mixing with other varieties must be absolutely guarded against.

Before planting, and later in harvesting and threshing, these points must be borne in mind:

- Make sure that the land is free from grain that may mix.
- That the drill is properly cleaned.
- That an alley separates each two grains.
- That the last straw is removed from the binder before beginning to cut.
- That the grain harvested is kept separate from other grain in shocking or mowing.
- That the machine is clean before threshing. (Thresh oats before a fall grain, or set aside a few sacks before sowing seed.)
- That the sacks have been turned inside out and shaken.
- That the cracks of bin are cleaned out before starting.
- That the weed seeds are fanned out before sowing or selling.

SUMMER HARD ON CHICKS

Special Care Should Be Given Them
During Hot Weather
Months.

By C. H. BURGESS,
Department of Poultry Husbandry,
Michigan Agricultural College.

East Lansing, Mich.—If there is any season of the year when the young chick should be more carefully nursed along than usual, it is in the months of July and August, when the weather man begins to get in his warmest work.
It is at this time that pullets which are expected to become winter layers are most likely to receive a setback.
In handling them during the hot weather season, therefore, it is well to keep a number of points in mind.

Look to the water supply. There should be plenty of it, it should be kept in the shade, should be perfectly pure, and contained in a clean vessel,
for it is through the drinking water that many diseases are transmitted to the flock. Water should never be given growing stock which is less than 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Food should be in good quantity and of highest quality, with sound and bright grain in it. A good grain ration for July may be made up of two parts by weight and one part of corn.
If wheat is not available use barley. A mash composed of equal parts by weight of wheat bran and ground oats, to which has been added 15 per cent
by weight of a good meat or fish scrap,
is also good.

The pullets should have plenty of shade. The ideal place to grow them is in the middle of a cornfield. Such a situation is ideal for the colony house. The pullets must destroy to a large extent the growing crops within a rod of the building, but that is all.

A wheat field will grow pullets that will lay most heavily.

Do not overcrowd the pullets at night. Allow at least eight inches perch space for each pullet. Overcrowding means overheated birds, and this may lead to their catching a cold which frequently develops into some form of roup.

A full crop now means a full egg basket next winter.

Leghorns will produce eggs when they are five months old, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyanddots when they are six months old.

Sort your pullets when they are twelve weeks old. Remove the weak ones and those which seem slow to mature. A well-raised pullet will produce, while a poorly raised pullet will be a disappointment.

CABBAGE WORM AT LARGE

Raid Gardens and Fields, but May Be Checked by Powder and Sprays.

By DON B. WHELAN,
Extension Specialist in Entomology,
Michigan Agricultural College.

East Lansing, Mich.—Farmers and gardeners with a crop of cabbages coming on may find the cabbage worm among their unwelcome visitors ere long if they haven't already discovered him. The cabbage appears to have no end of troubles. It survives trans-planting, escapes the flea beetle and root maggot, and reaches an advanced state of growth, it is attacked by cabbage worms.

We notice frequently that the cabbages we have watched over so closely during the spring and early summer have holes eaten through the forming heads, while the outer leaves also show much damage by being eaten. Upon closer examination a number of small green worms, varying in size, are found. They are not readily seen owing to the fact that their color is so nearly like that of the leaves upon which they are feeding.

The adult of the cabbage worm is the common white butterfly seen so frequently in the early spring. In the spring these butterflies gather in large numbers in moist places and lay their eggs on some available plant, and the larvae emerge in about a week. The whole life cycle requires about five weeks, and there are about three generations a year. The last generation spends the winter as pupae among the old stalks and rubbish in the fields.

Cabbage worms can be controlled by the use of powdered arsenate of lead dusted on before the heads have formed. Later, as the cabbages mature, a spray consisting of half an ounce of pyrethrum, or Persian insect powder, in a gallon of water, will serve to efficiently control the "worms" and will be harmless to man. One spray, however, will not be sufficient under ordinary conditions. The spray will have to be repeated at intervals
throughout the summer.

ORCHARDS NEED CULTIVATION

Keeping Soil in Good Condition Helps Fruit Crop.

East Lansing, Mich.—Orchards, according to the department of horticulture of the Michigan Agricultural college, should be cultivated thoroughly if they are expected to do their best. Cultivation is necessary to keep the soil in good mechanical condition, to further prevent the loss of moisture by evaporation, and to kill and keep down weeds.

The orchard should be gone over once in ten days or two weeks, and after hard rains. Fruit demands a great deal of moisture to develop properly, and for this reason frequent shallow cultivation should be given, to make the moisture readily available to the tree.

The smoothing harrow is one of the best tools to use in the orchard for this purpose.

BUDGET AND RAIL BOARD APPOINTED

COMMISSIONS AUTHORIZED BY LAST LEGISLATURE NAMED BY GOVERNOR.

WILL REPORT AT NEXT SESSION

Budget Committee to Investigate Systems Other States Use and Recommend One for Michigan.

Lansing.

Governor Sleeper has appointed the special commission authorized by the legislature to investigate the budget systems of the various states and to recommend to the next legislature a suitable budget law for Michigan.

The members are: Dana H. Hinkley, Petoskey; O. C. Tompkins, Lansing; George Lord, Detroit; Joseph W. O'Brien, Grand Haven, and Charles D. Thompson, of Bad Axe, who was designated special investigator.

R. R. Rate Committee Also Named.

George M. Clark, of Bad Axe; Thomas D. Kearney, of Ann Arbor, and Robert G. Graham, of Grand Rapids, constitute the special committee appointed by the governor to investigate the railroad rate question.

During the last session of the legislature a bill passed the senate increasing passenger rates from two cents to two and one-half cents per mile.
This was killed in the house and a compromise measure was adopted authorizing the governor to name a special committee thoroughly to investigate the situation and report at the next session.

Kearney has been a member of the state tax commission for three years, but has tendered his resignation in order to serve on the railroad committee. He is a Democrat.

Great interest was displayed in the railroad commission. This commission, the governor himself has intimated right along, has given him a lot of trouble. He took one tax commissioner, one member of the state board of agriculture and a personal friend and lawyer.

Huge Task to House New Army.

To house the men, animals and vehicles at the Battle Creek camp will require 1,100 buildings.

The immensity of the task of housing each of the 16 armies to be placed in the cantonment camps is indicated by the statement of an army officer that a division of troops, such as will be quartered at Battle Creek, forms a line 20 miles long when in marching order, with all its regular paraphernalia.

A division consists of 35,992 officers and men, made up of 10 regiments of infantry, three regiments of field artillery, one regiment of engineers, two battalions of signal corps, one aero squadron, four ambulance companies and six truck companies.

With a regular division go 6,846
horses and 4,875 mules, 1,009 wagons, of which 360 are to carry rations, 50
3-inch field guns, 25 3.8-inch howitzers, 92 machine guns, 32,000 rifles, 12 motor cars, 67 motor trucks, 64 motor cycles, 12 aeroplanes, 48 ambulances, 328 other vehicles.

A new form of supply train, using motor trucks largely in place of horse and mule-drawn wagons, may be assigned to Battle Creek, if the supply of motor vehicles can be secured in time. In place of the above quota, this new form of division would require only 6,713 horses and 2,687
mules. The number of motor cars, however, would be increased to 35,
the number of motor trucks to 627 and the number of motorcycles to 106. The artillery, aeroplane and ambulance equipment is the same in both forms of organization.

Sleeper Appoints Staff.

Governor Sleeper appointed his personal military staff to serve without compensation during the war. Commissions as colonels were issued to George M. Clark, Bad Axe; Burt D.
Cady, Port Huron; Gurd M. Hayes,
Lansing; Albert E. Petermann, Calumet, and Roger M. Andrews, Menominee. None of the members of the governor's staff will wear uniforms. They will perform such work as the governor may direct.

Women and War.

Woman, according to legend and romance, becomes during the war the sandy samaritan who ministers to heroes' wounds, but according to a report made to the London city mission, woman is really demoralized by the loss of her protector and companion. Women—crouching—in public houses, drunk and vile of speech, have now become a common sight in the poorer quarters of London. The administrators of the patriotic fund in Canada have also found that great social disorganization follows the leaving of women alone at the mercy of landlords and others upon whom they are dependent in financial straits.

A Substitute for Cotton.

The English have found that bog moss, known technically as sphagnum cymbellifolium, when sterilized, makes an antiseptic, light, soft and cool dressing for wounds. It is packed in flannel bags after sterilization.

For the first time in many years strontium ore has been marketed from deposits in the United States, chiefly in Arizona and California.
Attachments have been patented for fastening old automobile tires over new ones to protect the latter from blowouts and external injuries.

Goats from Spain have been imported into the islands by the government of the Philippines to improve the standard of the native animals.

A ten-shot revolver, small enough to be carried in a vest pocket and fired when concealed in a man's hand, has been invented by a Frenchman.

Is Your Work Hard?

Work which brings any unusual strain on the back and kidneys tends to cause kidney ailments, such as back ache, lameness, headache, dizziness and distressing urinary troubles. Kidney complaints make any kind of work doubly hard and if neglected there is danger of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease. If your work is hard on the back, keep your kidneys in good condition with Doan's Kidney Pills. These sands rely on them.

A Michigan Case

Sam Willits, stationary engineer, 405 Pleasant
avenue, Detroit, Mich.,
says: "I suffered four or five years from sharp pains across my kidneys, such as back ache and right side. Nothing did me any good until
I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They cleared up
the kidney secretions,
passed a gravel stone,
when ever I have a touch of kidney medicine since. Doan's Kidney Pills have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken."

SEA SOLDIERS GOOD SHOTS

There is a story from Vera Cruz that tells of the marksmanship of Uncle Sam's Marines.

The marines know how to handle a rifle; 50 per cent of the force are qualified, listed shots. There is a story from Vera Cruz that tells of good shooting and a sure eye, Henry Renterbach writes in the Youth's Companion.

Our bluejackets were marching up the street from the plaza between rows of low two-story houses. A well-dressed Mexican, with a newspaper over his knee, was sitting on the balcony of his house, apparently intent on watching our sailors advance; but hidden under the paper he held a big revolver, and as our men went by he fired. The bullets were striking, but our officers could hardly suspect a well-dressed Mexican, reading a paper and looking peacefully on from his own house, of being the sniper.

Dropping his paper, the Mexican went inside to reload. When he came out again on the balcony the glint of the gun caught the attention of Lieutenant Colonel Neville on horseback in the plaza, 500 or so yards away.
Through his eight-power fieldglass the colonel saw plainly the flash of the shot under the newspaper.

"Got him," he said, turning to his orderly.

The man raised his rifle, pressed the trigger—and the Mexican fell out of his chair.

"Got him, sir," said the marine.

Causes of Nervousness.

There is an article on the care of children in the Woman's Home Companion in which the writer says:
"Nervousness sometimes is the result of some personal defect, Malnutrition, anemia, defective eyesight, bad teeth or adenoids may be the predisposing cause. Nature offers the best cure. Plenty of nourishing food and wholesome outdoor life are essential, and these children should be encouraged to play and to take regular exercise, such as walking, rowing and swimming. Real country life is always the best, and camping is a cure in itself, first for the outdoor life and healthful exercise and second, because the nervous child needs the companionship of other children."

Recess Was Called.

A real estate agent was testifying in court recently in a case involving the exchange of a picture show for a farm.
It was contended that the theater was not worth what it was represented, owing to its location. The attorney asked the witness to state what the surroundings of the theater were.
"Next door to it was a shoe shining place," he answered, "then came a garage, and next was a saloon, and that's as far as I got." When the excitements subsided, the judge observed that that was a good place to stop, and the customary midsession recess was called.—Indianapolis News.

"There's a Reason"

MANY PROMINENT MEN COME OUT FOR TANLAC

MAYORS, JUDGES, HIGH OFFICIALS, BANKERS, LAWYERS, DOCTORS AND EDITORS INDORGE IT.

FEEL IT THEIR DUTY TO TALK

They Come Forward and Unhesitatingly Tell Suffering Humanity What Celebrated Medicine Has Done for Them.

IT is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially men holding high public office, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. Many prominent men, however, including supreme court judges, mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, government officials and even ministers of the Gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what Tanlac has done for them.

These well-known men of affairs have recognized in this medicine a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world. It is a well-known fact that these splendid endorsements have been given Tanlac time and time again and they will continue to be given just as often as new tests of its powers are made; and it also explains why numbers of the big drug firms of the country are ordering it exclusively in carload lots.

Doctor Prescribes It.
Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the South.

"In my thirty years of actual practice as a licensed physician in the state of Georgia," says Dr. Edwards, "I have never seen anything to equal Tanlac as a medicine to produce results. I have no hesitancy in recommending this medicine and I am prescribing it for my patients almost every day."

Professor C. T. Clotfelter, prominent educator and principal of the High School at Bea Hill, Ga., says: "I was in such bad physical condition that I feared I would have to give up my duties. I suffered from rheumatism, sluggish liver, nausea and terrible bilious headaches. I have taken 3 bottles of Tanlac and I feel better than I have felt in years."

Noted Texas Talks.
Hon. Archie R. Anderson, ex-governor of Harris County, Texas, is unquestionably not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular men that ever held office in Texas. He served the people in this important office for 15 consecutive years.

"I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food," said Mr. Anderson. "I suffered with neuralgia pains of the worst sort and nothing seemed to help me except in a temporary way."

"I began to feel better after taking my first bottle of Tanlac and have just now started on my third. I'm a different man already."

H. W. Hill, president of one of the leading banking institutions of South Pittsburg, Tenn., and one of the most successful bankers and business men in Tennessee, said:

"I suffered from rheumatism and other ailments for many years and

NOTED EX-MAYOR RECOMMENDS IT

FORMER MAYOR FRANK V. EVANS, OF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., MAKES STRONG STATEMENT.

ONE of the latest additions to the large and rapidly growing list of prominent men who have publicly endorsed Tanlac for the good it has done them, is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, former Mayor of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. Evans is one of the best known men in public life in Alabama today, being at one time editor of one of the South's greatest newspapers, the Birmingham Age-Herald. He was also ex-minister of public accounts of Alabama. In telling of the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, Mr. Evans said:

"For years I suffered with gastritis and indigestion in the worst form. I was habitually constipated and had pains in my shoulders and headache continually. My appetite left me almost entirely and everything I would eat hurt me. Finally I got to having awful attacks of acute indigestion, palpitation of the heart and smothering spells. For a long time I would have one or more of these spells every night and I would wake out of my restless sleep gasping for breath."

"I bought a bottle of Tanlac and to my surprise and gratification I began to feel relief after the first few doses. I kept taking the medicine and now my recovery is simply the talk of Birmingham."

Tanlac has done me more good than anything I ever tried. I now wake up in the morning feeling fine.

"I'm telling all my friends about Tanlac and am recommending it to them, regardless of their age and trouble."

Dr. G. W. De LaPerriere, of Winder, Ga., is not only one of the best known physicians and druggists in the State of Georgia, but is also a man of extensive property and wide influence, ranking as one of the leading citizens of that entire section. He has been in the drug business in Winder for 25 years.

Recently Dr. De LaPerriere writes: "Our people are much enthused over the beneficial effects of Tanlac and I desire to say that it is the most wonderful seller I ever had in this store."

Other prominent men who have endorsed Tanlac are:

Professor Elmer Morris, of Dover, Tenn.; Professor W. A. Wood, of the Central Graded Schools, Winder, Ga.; C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Co., Lawrenceville, Ga.; Hon. S. S. Shepard, member of the Atlanta city council; Colonel John B. Gaines, of Bowling Green, Ky., editor, political writer and well-known leader in his state; Hon. George Samuels, Chief of Police in Macon, Ga.; Hon. C. G. Lavender, register of Williamson County, Tennessee; Dr. W. E. Brown, 4822 Charlotte Ave., Nashville, Tenn., founder and president of the Tennessee Protestant Home for Girls; John P. Carroll, cotton mill superintendent, of Chattahoochee and Atlanta and N. M. Yancy, manager of contract department, Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph Co.

NORWAY.

The following Norse chat was translated from the Ostlandingen: "It is pleasant to look at the logging horse now. He is so well cared for and so gently handled. Not so thirty years ago. At that time it was often a pity to see the horses pulling the log loads. Thin and discouraged, they were often fed on nothing but hay, and the poorest of poor hay at that. Often the horse had sores on account of poor harness. But in spite of all this, the load had to be pulled ahead. The driver whipped and swore and made a holy show of himself, using the ax handle or anything that he could lay his hand on. But now—clever, timely and oats, as much as the horse can eat. That is something that puts weight and mettle into a horse. The roads are well-cared for, so that the hauling is easy. And if the load is too heavy, the driver does not whip his way through; he unloads until the horse can make easy headway. The logging horses are often as fat and sleek in the springtime as in the fall, and what is the cause of this great change? Well, what could it be but education, culture? Now, come and tell us that education does not help a bit, that everyone is just as brutal and heartless as before. No, sir, such an assertion is false."

It has been asserted that Germans have established wireless plants at secret places along the Norwegian coast, as it has been shown that U-boats have been lying in wait for Norwegian ships—just outside territorial waters—within a few hours after the ship has left port. In our case, the submarine office is quoted as having scored the Norwegian commander for being "overdue." He should have been in the particular spot two hours earlier. The U-boat commander informed him. The Norwegian authorities declare the operation of a wireless station is impossible without their knowledge, but the recent discovery of a small wireless plant on an island outside of Bergen, the property of a schoolboy who was operating it experimentally, not knowing it was illegal, casts doubt upon this assumption. Private interests, chief among them the shipowners, have offered high rewards for the detection of spies, promising $2,500 for the first caught and proved guilty, and $250 for each additional capture.

American Minister Schmedeman at Christiania officially has been informed that Norway is sending a trade mission to this country headed by Fridtjof Nansen, the Arctic explorer, which will discuss "questions of importation and exportation and inform this government of conditions in Norway." The European neutrals, cognitions to Germany are alarmed by the export embargo powers in the espionage bill which may cut them off entirely from American imports, and have issued earnest pleas to the United States not to enforce the legislation vigorously.

Norway's youngest city, Notodden, is also the most law-abiding. It has 6,000 inhabitants and has existed as a city something like four years. During that time no one has been fined for violating the building and fire ordinances. Every dog is registered promptly the first day of the year. The city is "dry," but no one is in the blind-plugging business. Nor do the records tell of crimes of a more serious nature. In fact, the city fathers are thinking of abolishing the police department.

The Chicago Woman's club has published an English translation of the Casberg children's laws passed by the storting of Norway a few years ago. In the preface it is stated by the publishing committee that these laws put Norway ahead of all other countries in Europe and America, with regard to fair play to children born outside of wedlock.

The Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord recently brought 628 passengers to this country from Norway. No submarine was sighted on the voyage, the officers reported.

The Verdalen Manufacturing company closed its sawmills while the spring work was going on in order that the men might assist in doing the seeding and ploughing.

Gjertvedt Graven, the oldest person in Trondheim, died at the age of almost one hundred and one years. She was born in Leksvik. At the age of fifty she moved her little cottage to Trondheim, and she and her sister lived together for a great many years. For many years Gjertvedt was a servant at the house of Carl-Lossner of Lade. Her superiors were very fond of her on account of her fidelity and her interest in Christian work. Until very recently she was an active member of the heathen and Lapp missions.

At Bonnavik, a few miles from Nesodden, the office clerk's union of Christiania has bought a property which is to be used as a home for aged people. The main building contains 12 large rooms and two kitchens. Part of the 25 acres of ground is to be sold as lots to private parties who wish to build homes of their own.

The Ornen (Eagle) Whaling company of Sandefjord has had a very successful season, the output of whale oil being 43,600 barrels.

Save the Babies

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent. or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen.

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupify, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher than Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. # Get under the Big Brown Top

It is vacation time. It's a time to get away from the monotony of everyday things and take a mental and physical break. As baseball is the national sport, so Chautauque is the national mental stimulant. Americans have a habit of doing their own thinking. Thus 3,000 or more Chautauques have sprung up in America as forums for the discussion of the great social and political issues that are in men's minds.

Twenty million people will get under the "Big Brown Top" this summer. They regard the Chautauque as a community center, a medium for the exchange of ideas and as an opportunity of broadening their outlook.

But the big thing about the whole business is the glorious, good time every one has.

Think of five days of music! Here is the list:

First Day—Mrs. Wilbur Starr Concert Party, four talented ladies in a program of ensemble numbers with the violin, cello, flute and piano; also readings in Japanese costumes and child impersonations.

Second Day—Hanna's Jubilee Singers in songs of the old plantation and old time darkey camp meeting melodies.

Third Day—Emerson Winters Company. Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Winters in a program of their own—third imitations, piano monologues and stories.

Fourth Day—Pallaria and his band, a band that can follow the big success of last summer's Chautauque. Pallaria has appeared in concert in the New York Hippodrome and was headmaster of the ballyhooing Kansas.

Fifth Day—The Sander Club with Miss Mabelle Wagner-Sander, formerly with Henry W. Savary's operatic forces in New York. Two features stand out: their mercurial numbers, sung in their vestments; and their "Days of '64" sketch, in which they appear in the quaint costumes of the early states.

THE LECTURE NUMBERS

There are four great lectures:

First Day—Robert Parker Miles, on "Yellow Dips," newspaper man and world traveler.

Second Day—Andre Tridon, on "An Inside View of Mexico." He has spent two years in Mexico and went down to live the life of the Mexican and to get the facts about the "greaser" as well as the man higher up. He is a French scholar and the author of books in five languages. He has just returned from a two month trip to Mexico, where he was a Mexican correspondent for the Independent Magazine.

Third Day—A. E. Wiggam, on "Hereditary and Human Progress." He discusses a hundred problems that every man and woman has pondered over.

Fifth Day—Wallace Bruce Ambury, on "The Poet Beer of Lockport Street," an afternoon with the favorite poet, James Whitcomb Riley.

In addition, J. Franklin Caveny, clay modeler and chalk talker, pronounced by some "greater than Tom Nast."

THE JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUE

Then, too, there is the Junior Chautauque for boys and girls, a whole story in itself.

PATRIOTISM, THE KEYNOTE

A patriotic hue will run throughout the entire program. The music will ring with patriotism, and a spirit of Americanism will characterize each address to be given.

The Community Chautauques have always represented the highest ideals and the most vigorous principles of true Americanism, and every town should plan this year to make its assembly a great rallying place of national loyalty and patriotism.

GETTING THE PIG READY FOR EXHIBITION.

Special Information for Boys' and Girls' Pig Clubs.

The more care and attention that is given to the spring pig, the greater will be the profit in the fall and winter. The pig should be separated from all other live stock if possible and given a separate lot in which there is plenty of good succulent pasture such as clover, alfalfa, rape, oats, etc., or what ever pasture is best adapted for your hogs in your particular community. The pig should at all times have a supply of fresh clean water so arranged that the pig cannot get into it and foul the water.

Two of the greatest enemies we have to keep pigs in poor condition are lice and worms. Both are very simple to handle if given the proper attention and consideration. If the pigs are to be kept free from lice, they must be sprinkled at regular intervals with a good disinfectant, a supply of which can be secured at any local drug store. To keep the pigs free from worms several remedies are good. The following are suggested:

a six dose for a pig weighing from sixty to one hundred pounds:

- (1) Calomel, 6 grains; Santonine, 4 grains.
- (2) One teaspoonful of turpentine, or copperas, in the slop for several feeds, and then follow with physic.
- (3) Santonine, 2 1/2 grains; Arica Nut, 1 dram; Calomel, 2 grains; Sodium Bicarbonate, 2 drams.

For a general conditioner, the following formula is recommended which can be kept before the pig at all times in a self-feeder made for that purpose—something which the pig cannot turn over and into which the rain cannot fall:

- Copperas, 3 parts; Common Salt; 3 parts; Gläuber's Salt, 3 parts; Soda, 3 parts; Charcoal, 4 parts; Sulphur, 1 part.

In feeding the pig it must be remembered that the price of feeding stuff differs with different localities and at different times; this fact as well as several others must be taken into consideration when selecting rations should be helpful, however:

- Ration for pigs at weaning time: (1) Corn, 4 parts; Shorts, 4 parts; Bran, 1 part; Tankage, 1 part. (Linsed Oil

Meal may be substituted for all or part of tankage in the ration by using twice as much oil meal as called for.

- Ration for growing shoats—(1) Corn, 6 to 8 parts; Shorts, 2 to 3 parts; Tankage, 1 part.

- Ration for fattening shoats—(1) Corn, 2 to 10 parts; Shorts, 2 parts; Tankage, 1 part. (2) Corn, 5 to 6 parts; Linsed Oil Meal, 1 part. (3) Corn, 10 to 15 parts; Tankage, 1 part.

These rations are proportioned by weight rather than by measure, and on the basis of shell or ground corn. If corn is fed, due allowance must be made for the extra weight of the cob.

Feed the pig three or four times a day, all he will clean up nicely. Always feed at regular intervals and try to feed him at the same time each day. By all means keep the pig growing and in due course of time put on the necessary show fat to get him ready for exhibition. Make the pig take plenty of exercise, he will usually do this without any attention, however.

It is well to get him accustomed to being driven with a whip, stick, or hurdle whenever you want him to go, in order to have him well trained when you take him to the show ring.

In order to improve the appearance of the pig take a sharp pair of scissors and trim the long hairs off of both the outside and inside of the pig's ears and around the edges. Also trim the hair off of the pigs tail from the tail head down to within an inch of the tip of the tail. Keep the feet trimmed taking a sharp knife and cutting off the extra growth of the toes. Sand paper the hoofs occasionally to keep them looking good. If there are any long hairs along the flanks, trim them off even with the rest of the coat. Put the pig in a crate and give him a good soap and water bath about every two weeks. This will get rid of any dirt and scurf that might accumulate and put his skin in good condition. Then brush the pig's coat down with an oil dressing made up of one pint of sweet oil and one ounce of alcohol.

This will keep the pig in good condition. When you take your pig to a show, have him looking ship-shape. If you take care of him as suggested above he will be in good condition. If there are scales on the place, weigh the pig once or twice a week to see how much he is gaining. If he does not gain to suit your requirements, find out the trouble.

If there is any further information we can furnish you from time to time, please do not hesitate to write the National Duroc-Jersey Record Association, Peoria, Ill.

Simplified Dress and Practical Home Making.

The State Federation of Women's clubs of Michigan, thru the Home Economics department, makes a plea to all women and girls for simplified dress for street and school and for a scientific practical knowledge of home making.

At a Home Economics conference held last year where representatives of women's clubs, teachers, the state grange and many other organizations working for a world wide betterment, two special lines of work were discussed and plans laid whereby the interest of all women and girls thruout the state might be aroused.

First, to further develop the interest in simplified dress, for women for street wear, especially for shopping, and simple school dresses for girls. Many poorly paid working girls are doubtless led into temptation and extravagance of dress, ill suited for public work, by the example set by women who thoughtlessly satisfy their love of finery and display.

It is hoped that all women who can do so will have a well tailored suit of good material which they will wear for two or three years at least.

All school girls should be persuaded and encouraged to wear plain simple clothes. Much interest may be stimulated by clubs by offering prizes for neat, pretty, inexpensive graduating dresses and to further interest them plans might be made whereby all girls in the state might compete on designs for a kind of school uniform.

The school life of many poor girls is made unhappy because of the fine clothing worn by more wealthy companions. Where girls are over-dressed school work suffers, as well as character.

The second aim of this department will be the establishment of courses in home economics in as many of the schools of our state as possible, including and especially emphasizing the rural schools. The very smallest out-of-the-way rural school may have such a course in a simplified manner, if the women's clubs will take it up. If the directors cannot supply the needed items of expense then let the members have a day or part of a day at regular periods for the girls above ten years old. They may be brot into the kitchen and there taught many interesting things—rudiments of home making.

Some may oppose this and say it unnecessary, as the mother at home can do this. True enough, but will she remember girls love to get together and after preparing dishes their love for parties and entertaining may be gratified by serving these dishes to themselves and friends. At the same time they may be taught to be hostesses. A month or half of the school-year might be used for cooking and housework lessons and the remainder sewing may be taught.

Ten cents sent to the Commissioner of Health, City Hall, Chicago will bring the menus and receipts used last winter when six men and six women were well fed on a very small sum per day.

Five cents sent to Mr. A. W. Hopkins, College of Agriculture, Madison, Wisconsin will bring a little bulletin on simple sewing which is very helpful.

These simple ideas may be carried out by any rural club or even by any two women who are determined and who have public advancement at heart.

Further information may be secured by writing, enclosing stamp for reply, the Dean of the Women's department of the Agricultural college at Lansing, Miss Georgia L. White, is to your district chairman.

C. A. Travis, Chestnut St., Grayling, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney pills off and on for several years when I have felt in need of a kidney remedy. Whenever my kidneys have been weak, the kidney secretions have passed too frequently, causing me to get up often at night. I would then have a sort of catch thru the small of my back and it would pain me. A box or so of Doan's Kidney pills, procured at Olson's Drug store, have never failed to cure me of the attack. I gladly advise anyone to get a box if troubled in that way."

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Beall, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.
